Extracts from A Catechism of Modern Errors by Msgr Antonio De Castro Mayer

On the Liturgy

A) The false or dangerous position

When the faithful attends Holy Mass and pronounces together with the celebrant the words of the consecration, he cooperates in the transubstantiation and in the sacrifice.

B) Catholic doctrine position
The faithful are incapable of 'concelebrating' together with the priest by cooperating in transubstantiation, because they lack the sacrament of Orders which grants this power.

Explanation

Only the sacrament of Orders confers the power and the capacity of producing transubstantiation in the sacrifice of the New Law. The simple faithful are thus incapable of producing it. This proposition renews the Protestant heresy condemned by the Council of Trent and was proscribed again by Mediator Dei of his Holiness Pius XII.

A) The false or dangerous position

The faithful who follow the Mass with a Missal participate in the Mass; the faithful who follow the Mass in any other way only attend it.

B) The Catholic position
The participation of the faithful in the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass consists in the union of the intentions of the Sovereign priest, Jesus Christ, and of the priest celebrating. Any method (missal, rosary, meditation) which procures efficiently this union is perfect.

Explanation

The refuted sentence renews the Jansenistic spirit contained in the proposition of Quesnel, condemned by Clement XI in his Bull Unigenitus of Sept. 8, 1713: "To withdraw from the simple people this consolation of uniting their voice of the whole church is a custom contrary to the apostolic praxis and to the divine intentions."

In itself, it is a consequence of the erroneous doctrine according to which the faithful "concelebrates" the Holy Mass together with the priest, and then he must pronounce with him the liturgical words. Whoever would not pronounce these words would not "participate" in the Mass but would only attend it passively. On the contrary, Mediator Dei insists on the union to the intentions of Jesus Christ and of the celebrant, and gives full liberty to the faithful on the method to use to reach this goal. For this reason, we are far from discouraging the interest which one must take in everything which is said during Mass, as well as in the knowledge of the missal, the prayers and ceremonies of the Holy Sacrifice, etc.
