Pentecost Sunday

The Catechism of the Crisis in the Church by Fr. Matthias Gaudron

II The Faith

10) What is the consequence of denying a dogma?

Whoever denies a single dogma has lost the Faith, for he does not receive the Revelation of God but sets himself up as judge of what is to be believed.

- Can one not deny one dogma while continuing to believe in the others and thus conserve the Faith, at least partially?

As we saw above, the Faith does not depend on our personal judgment, but on the authority of God who reveals Himself and who can neither deceive nor be deceived. Thus it is necessary to receive everything that God has revealed and not take only that which seems good to us. Therefore someone who makes a choice about the revealed deposit of faith and does not want to accept it as a whole imposes a limit on God, for he lets his reason have the last word. He who acts in this way no longer has supernatural faith, but only a human faith, however numerous the points on which it may be in accord with supernatural faith.

- Can papal teachings be cited on this point?

When Pope Pius IX defined the dogma of the Immaculate Conception of the Virgin Mary in 1854 he said: "Hence, if anyone shall dare—which God forbid!—to think otherwise than as has been defined by us, let him know and understand that he is condemned by his own judgment; that he has suffered shipwreck in the faith; that he has separated from the unity of the Church."

Leo XIII taught the same thing: "He who denies one of the truths of the faith, even in a single point, in reality loses the whole of the faith, for he refuses to respect God as supreme Truth and formal grounds of the faith." The pope further cites St. Augustine who said, with regard to heretics:

They are in agreement with me on many things, and we disagree on but a few things. But because of those few things in which they are not in agreement with me, the many points of agreement are of no value to them.

- In matters of faith then, is it all or nothing?

One cannot be 70 or 99 percent Catholic; one accepts the whole of Revelation or one does not, in which case one possesses only a human faith which one has fabricated for oneself. To choose some truths out of the ensemble of the truths of the Faith is called heresy (in Greek, choice).

- What should one make of the now popular slogan to the effect that, in our relations with "separated Christians," we should look to what unites rather than to what divides us?

It is altogether false and contrary to the traditional teaching of the Church to say, with regard to non-Catholics, that one must look to what unites rather than to what divides us. This creates the impression that differences relate only to details without importance, when in fact the fullness of revealed truth is at stake.

The Sisters also placed blessed medals under the future foundations of this house of prayer and religious sacrifice. Since we will receive no government funding, we appeal to the generosity of the faithful to build it, brick by brick. We have already received an incredibly generous pledge of $1,000,000 but desperately need a further $700,000 to bring this project to completion. Please consider subscribing to the 'Bricks for St Joseph' campaign at the link by scanning the QR code and engrave your intentions permanently in the convent building. Donations made to St Joseph's Convent building fund are Tax Deductible. For updates on this project, please contact stjosephsconvent@stphilomena.qld.edu.au to be added to our mailing list. The Sisters are already praying for their benefactors, who are especially remembered in the weekly Mass offered for their intentions.
