ON THE MIRACLE OF FEEDING FIVE THOUSAND MEN WITH FIVE LOAVES

Jesus Christ our Lord asked His apostles for the bread which they had, and they forthwith gave it to Him, “five barley loaves, and two little fishes,” which was all they had to support themselves. Here reflect on three things full of mystery :

1. The great poverty of Jesus Christ our Lord and of His disciples, and the little care which they had about feeding their bodies with dainty fare, since dwelling in this desert so many days, they had no more for thirteen persons, (besides some others which led with they them,) but only “five loaves,” and those of barley, which of all bread is the least pleasant to the taste, commonly used by the poor ; and although they were fishermen by occupation, yet they had only two little fishes amongst them all. By this example I will confound myself, seeing with what solicitude I seek after dainty and delicate meat, and will endeavour to content myself with a very little, and of a coarse and ordinary kind, although it be somewhat distasteful.

2. The second is, the great charity and obedience of the blessed apostles, for when Christ Jesus demanded those barley loaves of them, they presented them to Him without any reply, never saying that they should need them for themselves, but were willing to spare them out of their own repast, to supply the present necessity of others. Hence I will learn to join obedience with love and charity for the good of the poor, pitying them, and willingly depriving myself of my own provision, to supply their wants and miseries, since I lose them not, but employ them better, as it chanced in this case to the apostles.

3. And hence we are to see, that although Christ our Lord could have redressed this necessity by many other miraculous means, yet would He use the bread of the apostles, which He asked of them, to prove whether their charity and pity were perfect, and that they also might have part in this good work, and to teach me, that if I am not able to remedy all the necessity of the poor, that yet it is good at least to remedy some part of it, and then Almighty God with His liberality will remedy the rest, that which Tobias said to his son: fulfilling “According to thy ability be merciful. If thou have little, take care even so to bestow willingly a little.” And the same thing happens in spiritual necessities, as well of my own, as of my neighbours, for Jesus Christ our Lord desires me on my part to offer all that I am able, although it be but little, and He by His mercy and almighty power will never fail to supply the rest.
